

Functional Group Assessment

Functional groups are a key element of any Product Development System. They can consist of any cross-section of team members including Engineering, Design, Manufacturing, Sales and Marketing, and Management. All too often we go about our daily business in the same manner without ever taking an inward look at our core strengths, weaknesses, and an understanding of efforts for improvement.

The EAC Functional Group Assessment provides an objective format for functional groups to truly understand their creation, consumption, and delivery of product data. Our team of technical experts will help identify these needs and establish a roadmap that will help guide you to higher productivity.

Objectives

- Understand functional group alignment to business objectives and initiatives
- Evaluate functional group members use of existing tool sets
- Examine processes and day-in-the-life activities to understand current state
- Understand communication practices, strengths, and weaknesses
- Drive awareness of opportunities for improvement
- Align functional group vision for future state
- Create a plan to achieve

Process

- Personal interview of primary stakeholder
- Personal interviews of function group members
- Compilation of interview information

Results

- Fact-based results and finding of your assessment
- Function Group Roadmap

